

Reggae Boyz now eyeing prep match against Bahamas

Jamaica's Reggae Boyz are now gearing up for a match against The Bahamas on May 31 after pulling off a brave goalless draw against English Premier League club Tottenham Hotspurs last night

The game took place in The Bahamas where the Reggae Boyz are preparing for three World Cup qualifying matches next month. Spurs selected a strong side but failed to break down the Reggae Boyz. Not even the introduction of Gareth Bale could rescue a win for the English side. Jamaica is preparing for World Cup qualifying games against Mexico on June 4 at home, the United States on June 7 also at home, and an away fixture against Honduras on June 11.

The Reggae Boyz are at the bottom of the six-team CONCACAF World Cup qualifying table with two points from three games. The six countries are competing for three automatic places in the FIFA World Cup finals at Brazil 2014.
